uncovers a wife's darkest secrets in a prize-winning novel from France's fast-rising literary star.

Until he reached the age of 64, Robert Pine had led a life that was both ordinary and extraordinary. Born into a middle-class family in suburban England, Robert grew up concealing a secret passion. Throughout his years as a schoolboy, soldier, teacher, salesman, husband, father, and grandfather, he was always asking himself the same question: "Who am I?" This honest account of the early years of the Anglican Church in Kenya and of the interaction of missionaries and Africans provides a corrective to European-centred history by its account of the contribution of African Church workers.
